

Red Fields

Like the view through an infrared camera, Red Fields exhibits qualities we don't normally see unaided. Delicate woven structures, intricate and unpredictable, appear in great detail. Opacity and transparency play in close proximity, and soft-edged geometry alternates between foreground and background — all set within a tidy square.

ABOUT WALLWORKS

Wallworks, in their most essential guise, are large-scale, one-of-a-kind wall hangings felted from reclaimed EILEEN FISHER clothing. The variety of materials, colors, and hand-arranged compositions renders each piece wholly unique. The size and textural quality of Wallworks make for a stunning addition to private and public spaces alike, providing visual impact and a modicum of acoustic dampening. Wallworks were first displayed in the Waste No More exhibit at Salone Internazionale del Mobile di Milano, the prestigious furniture and design trade fair.
